Profile Summary

In 2012, I began my academic journey in IT. After completing two semesters, I developed a strong passion for programming, leading me to write my first project, a micro accounting software for retail stores, using C#. This sparked my interest in software development, and soon after, I officially started my career in web development, working with CMS platforms like WordPress. I have successfully completed numerous freelance projects, both large and small.

After completing my military service, I began working as a web designer and developer in several major companies, where I gained extensive experience. The challenges I faced helped me build practical skills in various areas, including SEO, team management, project management, and UI/UX design.

Throughout my career, I have specialized in WordPress and Laravel, while also developing intermediate knowledge in server management and configurations.
